Pigs Ear Raided.

Sheriff J. W. Norris and Chief of police Frank Mundy, raided a pig's ear shanty, situated south of the railroad, near the iron works, last Saturday night, arresting the proprietor, Andy Klamantic, who was held in $300 bail for his appearance at court. The prisoner put up his bail in cash and will now have time to——think. There are several other similar joints in Emporium and Shippen, well known to the officers and why they are not arrested is what our people would like to know. This defiance of law, order and decency should be dealt with at once and wiped out. Get busy, Mr. Sheriff, constable or policeman.

"Good Presiding Officer, Equally Good Father."

WASHINGTON, March 25.—In beginning his tariff speech Champ Clark the Democratic leader, both complimented and embarrassed Mr. Olmsted, who was in the chair. Mr. Clark said: "Yesterday I stated the lamentable fact that the Anglo-Saxon race is dying out for lack of babies. To day I wish to give credit where credit is due and congratulate the present occupant of the chair, as I have just learned that his absence yesterday was occasioned by the advent of new daughter into his family. He is a most excellent presiding officer and I have no doubt an equally good father." Mr. Clark's remarks were greeted with great applause from all parts of the chamber and during the day a good many members called at the Speaker's desk and offered their congratulations.

A Large Evening.

Last Wednesday evening, thirty-eight friends and neighbors came out for a good time and swooped down upon Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Hamilton, at their residence on West Fifth street, the occasion being Mrs. Hamilton's 58th anniversary. All had a rattling good time except Jake Huffman, poor fellow, who lost the pie. The following composed the happy gathering:

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Day, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Heilman, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gross, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Huffman, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Metzger, Jr.. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dininny, Mr. and Mrs. Dan'l Downey, Mr. and Mrs. E, H. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lingle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrison, and Mesdames G. F. Balcom, Chas. H. Edwards. E. R. When our readers see who were there they will know there was something doing and plenty of fun and a good spread to delight the inner man.

K. of C. Outing.

According to advices received by the local council of the Knights of Columbus, preparations are going rapidly forward for the big annual outing of the order, which is to be held at Cedar Point on Lake Erie, during the week of July 4 to 12.

It is the custom for the delegates to these affairs from the different councils participating to choose each year a different council to take charge of the arrangements, and this year the task has been assigned to Norwalk, Ohio, council, No. 626. A lively little paper, "The Outing," is being issued by the committee of the latter body to keep the members of the order informed as to the progress of the arrangements and the initial number has already been received here. E. J. Ryan, Grand Knight and secretary of the outing committee, is the editor.

The announcement is made that this year's reunion is to be on a larger and broader scale than ever before, and that the program will embody many new and praiseworthy features.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

SMITH.

The funeral of MRS. MARY B. SMITH, aged 73 years, whose death we briefly announced in our last issue, was held from the family residence on Fourth street, Friday afternoon at two o'clock and was very largely attended by friends of the family. Rev. Paul J. Lux, pastor of First Presbyterian church officiated and made very appropriate remarks. A choir composed of Misses Margaret Dodson, Marguerite Metzger, Minnie Baurgelt, Bessie McQuay, Rena Hertig, Messrs. H. A. Cox and W. S. Sterner, with Miss Belle Husted presiding at the piano, very beautifully rendered the hymns selected for the occasion, "Sweet Moments" and "Abide with Me," the latter hymn being a favorite of the deceased. Miss Grace Lloyd, in her sweet soprano voice, sang the solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," her sister, Miss Myrtle, presiding at the piano.

The floral offerings from the family and friends were very beautiful and in great abundance, attesting the esteem, in no small degree, this excellent lady was held by our citizens—not only in Emporium but throughout the entire county, where she had resided since 1868, coming to Driftwood from her native home in Wyoming county, Pa., to live with her sister, Mrs. Pollen; was married to Dr. S. S. Smith, Jan. 10, 1871. In 1882 her health failed her and up to the time of her death she was almost constantly an invalid, but at times delighted to mingle with her friends at parties and receptions. When possible, she loved to entertain her friends, both young and elderly, which she did splendidly.

After the word had been spoken and beautiful and touching hymns rendered the active casket bearers, Messrs. Jay P. Felt, Geo. Metzger, Jr., Edward White, Guy S. Felt, C. J. Goodnough, Leon Rex Felt Jasper Harris and Russell M. McQuay, all master Masons and members of Emporium Lodge, over which the deceased's husband had presided for years. The following citizens and friends served as honorary casket bearers: J. F. Parsons, M. T. Hogan, M. C. Tulis, Chas. L. Butler, A. A. McDonald and R. R. McQuay.

Silently and slowly the remains, accompanied by the large concourse of bereaved relatives and friends, were conveyed to the private vault recentlp completed in Wiley Annex to Newton cemetery to rest peacefully until resurrection morn.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES IN ATTENDANCE.

The following relatives and friends from out of town were in attendance at the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. McCloskey, (niece) Charleroi, Pa.; Mrs. H. E. Koester, (niece), Mr. J. L. Brown, (nephew) Bradner, O., Mrs. J. M. Gillen, (niece) Philadelphia, Mr. (nephew) and Mrs. L. Avery, Hon. Geo. R. Dixon, Dr. Williams, Ridgway; Miss Nellie O'Day, Kane; Dr. S. Ross Allen, (nephew) and wife, Olean, N. Y.; Samuel Greenfield, (nephew) Rochester, N. Y.; Geo. B. Smith, (brother) Westbrook, Ont.; Dr. Geo. L. Brown, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. Humphrey, Dagus Mines; Mrs. T. J. Riley, Dr. Corbett, Col. J. O. Brookbank, Driftwood; Chas. A. Council, J. H. Baird, Sinnamahoning; J. E. Smih, Miss Bertha Sterling. BARDWELL.

The announcement in last week's PRESS of the death of MRS. ELIZABETH EVANS-BARDWELL, wife of Dr. E. O. Bardwell, aged 49 years at their residence, No. 1175, Main street, Buffalo, N. Y., Wednesday evening, March 24th, 1909, at seven o'clock, of double pneumonia, was an awful shock to the host of friends of the family in Emporium, where they resided so many years and were closely allied with our people before going to Buffalo. The Emporium friends of the family were not aware of her illnsss until the sad news was received.

Mrs. Bardwell was taken sick Saturevening previous to her death and rapidly grew worse. The best physicians of Buffalo were called at once and every known remedy and skill was resorted to to save her life, but without avail. She realized her condition and told her attendants that she could not live. She was conscious almost to the last, but peacefully passed to the great beyond, to join her father, mother and sisters who passed over years ago.

Mrs. Bardwell came to Emporium when only seven years of age and resided here most of her life. Twenty-one years ago she was married to Dr. E. O. Bardwell and was a faithful, affectionate and loving wife, kind to a fault and during the illness of her husband, which covered a number of years, no wife could have been more watchful, patient and faithful. An excellent manager and housekeeper, she made the home attractive and was always surrounded by hosts of our citizens, she being of that happy, jovial disposition that made one shake off the "blues." Many were the pleasant hours ye editor, as well as hosts of our citizens, passed in her pleasant parlors or varanda. We shall long remember her sunny disposition and the occasions passed in the company of Dr. and Mrs. Bardwell.

Nine years ago, next June, she was stricken with what it was feared to be a fatal disease and after a severe operation, by Dr. Mann of Buffalo, she bore up wonderfully. Although a great sufferer, yet she maintained that hopeful and sunny disposition. After moving to Buffalo (one year ago last Aug.) her health improved remarkably and only a day before her illness she expressed surprise at her greatly improving condition. Dr. Bardwell, whom we regret is in very feeble health, is almost crushed by the cruel blow, yet surrounded by loving hands and friends may be consoled and we hope will bear up under the irreparable loss.

The remains were taken to Penn Yan, N. Y., the native home of Dr. Bardwell, Friday morning and laid at rest in the Bardwell family plot.

Mrs. Clara Cruise and Miss Jane Evans, Emporium, and Mrs. Emma Sewell, Lima, Ohio, were with their sister when she passed away. Also Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hayes of Emporium, who remain there yet.

The PRESS and our citizens very generally, deeply sympathize with Dr. Bardwell and the afflicted family and and we known we express the deepest sympathy of our people who regret that circumstances prevented our being present to aid in consoling and comforting, in a measure, in the sad hours.

DAY.

E. CALEB DAY, aged 50 years, died in a Buffalo Hospital Tuesday morning after a long illness. Deceased resided here many years ago and will be remembered by many of our citizens as a carpenter who married Miss Lizzie Morro. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Miss Lillian, to mourn his death, the latter lady notifying Mrs. M. A. Rockwell of the death. Mr. Day was a member in good standing of Emporium Lodge, No. 984, I. O. O. F., and was cared for by a Buffalo Lodge at the request of the fraternity at this place. We have no particulars of the death of Brother Day other than the above.

Store Improvements.

The Fair Store has been thoroughly renovated during the past two weeks and makes a very neat appearance. New linoleum has been placed in the isles and the tables rearranged, allowing better display of the goods. Henry Zarps and his valuable assistant, Miss Edna Palmer, are always watching where improvements can be made.

***

Everbody's ice cream parlors, under the skillful management of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Meisel, has again been opened to the public for the season. A large mirror has been placed in the rear of the store and new linoleum covers the floor and new lights over the fountain. All adds greatly to the appearance of the parlors. Watch Meisel's new ad this week.

Pure Milk.

Watering milk is now a crime, Gov. Stuart having signed the recent law enacted by the legislature. People who pay for milk are going to get milk now, or Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust will know the reason why.

Rumors come from Renovo that the railroad company has sold the Renovo Hotel and the Park land to the Drocton Land Co., reserving the passenger dept. It is said the land will be laid out in lots and a four story brick hotel erected on the east end of the Park. This will be a great improvement for Renovo.

Big Eggs and Little One.

Mrs. J. F. Sullivan and son John, of Huntley, were PRESS visitors on Wednesday and left three eggs on our table, one measuring 2x2, one 8x7½ and one 8x6½. The smaller one was laid before they fed Felt's Egg Food to their fowls and the large ones after feeding this wonderful egg producer.

Adjourned License Court.

Associate Judges Geo. J. LaBar and John A. Wykoff re-convened license court on Monday and closed up the business laid over from regular term. The Warner House license was granted to Mr. H. W. Smith and the Commercial Hotel to Charles L. Butler. The usual wholesale licenses were granted.

Invitation Reception and Ball.

The Olean Orchestra will furnish the music. Thos. A. Law, J. B. Mulcahy and Jas. Haley are the committee in charge of the affair, which will be quite elaborate.

The Old Reliable.

Geo. C. Taggart, son of the late Hon. L. Taggart, has purchased the above popular drug store, so well and favorably known in this county. Geo. has been identified with the Old Reliable since he was a kid and is brushing up and "cleaning house," preparing for a brisk summer trade. Watch his advs. in the PRESS.

Better Watch Out.

Those chaps who are catching trout in violotion of the law, had better be a little careful because they are liable to run against an officer any time. Fishermen have no legal right to fish in a stream where brook trout are known to be. Ten dollars is going some for each trout caught out of season. Every law-abiding citizen should aid the officers in detecting these chaps.

New Hotel Proprietor.

Mr. Charles L. Butler, who recently purchased from Mr. F. Levecke his interest in the Commercial Hotel, took possession of that old and well known house to-day. Mr. Butler is well and very favorably known in this section and will conduct a first-class house. We bespeak for him a good share of the public patronage. Mr. and Mrs. Butler have hosts of friends in this county and will keep a popular house.

New Merchant.

Clipson Martin, one of our industrious young men, has purchased the R. M. Overhiser store, including the lot and building. He has moved his family to town and occupies the rooms over the store. We congratulate the young man and bespeak for him the same success that has been the record of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Overhiser during the many years they conducted this excellent store. They will now enjoy life in their comfortable home and take it easy. Glad of it.

Opening at Ludlams.

AN ELABORATE OPENING DISPLAY

First Official Spring Wear Opening at R. Kuehne's.

Mr. R. Kuehne's first official Spring Opening of ladies wear took place on Tuesday and the large and beautiful store room never looked better than upon this occasion.

The Millinery Department, the greatest attraction for the ladies this year this season contains a larger and far superior quality of goods than ever before displayed. Hats of the latest creation, in charge of an expert milliner, not the outlandish style (peach baskets, wash tubs, etc.) but just sensible and up-to-date styles, ranging in prices up to $30.00.

Infants Department, the first display ever seen in this county comprises a beautiful line of head gear handsomly trimmed, in straw and lawn bonnets. The display is indeed beautiful.

Ladies Wear. Especial pride is displayed in the stylish suits from the best manufacturers, of the latest style in make and trimming. Also have embroidered Suits, from $10.00 to $35.00. Beautiful Lace Coats, Baby Irish, all over Lace, from $10.00 up. Wash Suits, in all the leading colors, beautifully trimmed, in Old Rose, Serpent Green, Heilothrope, Copenhagen Blue and Light Blue. These are catchy, tasty, reasonable. Splendid line of Tailored Wash Suits, in two and three pieces. $3.98 to $10.00. Also Skirts from $1.98 to $5.00. In Walking Skirts, the Duchess, is the first in style in the country. Splendid in fit, quality and style, from $3.98 to $13.50. Ladies Waists, a very large line. Lawn Waists, $1.00 to $5.00. Net Lace Waists, $5.00 to $10.00.

Real Lace. A large and elaborate display of real lace. We saw one small lot of laces and nearly fainted when Mr. Kuehne told us they were valued at $1,500. We also saw lace from 5c per yard to $10.00 per yard Neckwear in lace collars from 25c to $12.00. Nothing to equal it ever brought to this section and the display is not only a credit to Emporium but speaks well of this popular house.

Silks. All the newest colors in Silks. Taffeta and Messaline—the popular Silks of the season. While in the Dress Goods Department we felt as though we had struck one of the great city stores—just as fine goods, in all the popular weaves, for summer wear.

While leaving the store we noticed a large new show case of the latest in Combs and Barretts, beautifully inlaid in gold and Rhinestone. They are worth your while to visit and look. Prices ranging from $1.50 to $12.50. The beautiful display of nice things rather bewildered us and while we stood at the door our attention was directed to the beautifully arranged windows, just as grand as any city display. The grandeur of the display can only be fully realized by calling on this enterprising, up-to-the-hour Dry Goods and Ladies Wear Merchant and engage one of his polite lady clerks to serve you—save you money—help the town—make you happy and your wife, daughter or sweetheart. Do It Now!

We desire to announce that we are now ready to do paper hanging and painting. Satisfaction guaranteed.

"A Spirit in Prison."

A Paris correspondent mentions an anomaly just discovered in that capital. He is a railway guard and composer, one M. Paul Dupin, 43 years of age, who has been a musician since childhood. When he was 12 his family lost the little money they had and he started at that early day to earn his living. He was an apprentice in one of the humblest berths in a railway company and then a mere porter at Rennes. Manual labor kept him busy 12 hours of the day, but at night he studied music and composed. He has never had any instruction but what he gave himself by reading such works as he could find in the Rennes public library. Until three years ago he had actually never been able to afford a concert ticket and had never in his life heard a full orchestra. He used to "read" Beethoven's symphonies, having taught himself to make out an orchestra score, but he could not even play arrangements of them on the piano, never having learned that or any other instrument. "Yet," says the Paris writer, "Dupin all these years went on composing. To-day he is employed in Paris. A friend has made a present of a piano to his 12-year-old daughter, who seems to be also remarkably gifted, and his delight is to hear his own compositions played by her, as he cannot play them himself." Behold, "A Spirit in Prison!"

The officers and men of the battleship fleet are full of praise for the kindness, hospitality and generosity shown them during their long cruise and the visits to foreign lands. One of them says he was unable to spend any money during the trip, because wherever they went no one would take pay. That certainly was extraordinary, for as a rule foreigners seem to think Americans have money to burn, and the hotel keepers, merchants and others are quite willing to help on the conflagration, declares the Troy (N. Y.) Times. But it may be assumed that knowledge of the United States has increased abroad somewhat of late. Uncle Sam is a great deal bigger man in the world's estimation than he was ten or eleven years ago, and the nations of the earth are correspondingly willing to do honor to him and his representatives.

The latest feast of the Amherst alumni in New York is described as the biggest and most enthusiastic college dinner ever held in that great metropolis. The fact that nearly all the speechs were of the phonographic order and could be turned on or shut off by twisting the button suggests inquiry whether the button old-fashioned postprandial speeches hadn't better be dispensed with by dining organizations and the machine variety with the open and shut arrangement made use of instead. The idea is certainly worth considering.

The law ordinarily has little sentiment, yet occasionally its decisions are based on sentiment alone. A poor woman haled into a Chicago court for non-payment of rent was noticed to be wearing a wedding ring and a pair of cheap earrings. The lawyer for the landlord demanded them, but the judge would not permit him to take them. "Their intrinsic value is small, their sentimental value great. They are exempt," he said. It is a humane and pleasant view.

The Philadelphia Inquirer protests against sending the liberty bell on "another wild west exhibition circuit." But has the bell ever been injured during one of these jaunts? Our impression is that Philadelphia caused these successive cracks in the glorious old herald of freedom.

An invention, which, it is said, will revolutionize the curing of meats has been perfected by Cleveland men. Electricity will be used to cause the salt to penetrate the meats and thus prepare them for the market in one-quarter the time the present method requires.

For years and years it was the custom of the Naval academy to make the "plebes" walk on the extreme edge of any street or pathway in the Naval academy grounds. Now a "plebe" is free to walk where he may.

WORTHY OF TRUST

PRESIDENT'S ADVISERS HAVE CONFIDENCE OF COUNTRY.

Cabinet Is Rich in Men of Legal Mind, and Their Services Are Needed by the Country To-Day.

The new administration is strong on its legal side. In fact, it may be said to have no other side. President Taft ranks with our best lawyers. Mr. Knox was called to Mr. McKinley's cabinet because of his high standing at the bar, and in that cabinet, and later in the senate, attracted wide attention because of his professional equipment. Mr. Wickersham has the highest New York indorsement, and Mr. Dickinson the highest middle state indorsement. Mr. Nagel is one of the leading lawyers of the Mississippi river valley, and Mr. Ballinger occupies a position of distinction in the legal world of the Pacific coast. Even Mr. MacVeagh, who is classed as a financier, was educated for the bar.

Lawyers have always dominated our politics. Twenty of our 26 presidents have been of that profession. The greatest of our achievements in the organization of the government—the treasury department—was the work of a lawyer—Alexander Hamilton. John Marshall was a tower of strength at the start. Daniel Webster, a lawyer, expounded the constitution in a way to command the deepest reverence for the instrument. The most popular and influential of our political leaders—Henry Clay—was a lawyer. The great man who saved the union—Abraham Lincoln—was a lawyer.

But never were lawyers more needed than now. The trust question, the railroad question, the labor question, the always present question of national authority and state authority, are in shape demanding the attention of experts in legal forms and powers. The Roosevelt period was largely agitatory. Evils were exposed. Remedies were indicated. But, in a large measure, matters have been left unsettled. There is work aplenty to be done toward bringing permanent order out of it all; and this ample legal talent in executive office co-operating with congress should be of immeasurable service to the country.

How strong we are as a people is illustrated afresh by the names presented. With an exception or two, all are those of men new to our national life, and unknown out of the country. They have played honorable and useful parts in their fields, but not so as to become known to the general public. The attorney general comes upon the stage as suddenly and surprisingly as did Charles E. Hughes a few years ago, and is said to be of the same grade and fiber. His opportunity is great, and those who know him are confident that he will improve it to the country's good. Eminent in the legal field, Mr. Dickinson is a stranger in the political field, and takes a department whose business stretches to the Philippines on the east and to Panama on the south. The secretary of war of to-day has his hands full; and as able a man as Judge Taft found use for all his talents in the post.

But new as they are, these men, there is all faith, will meet the emergency, and, under a chief enjoying the country's trust and admiration, execute their commissions faithfully and well.

The First Step.

The tariff is becoming less and less of a party question. It is generally conceded that the country will not abandon the protective policy. A nonpartisan commission would have been impossible once, but is possible now. But congressmen do not wish to create a commission. They resent expert advice. They believe that they know everything best. But if the business men of the country shall keep up their agitation—and they should do so—they will finally extort a commission from a reluctant congress.

The first thing is to get a tariff commission with whose intelligent assistance there can be some approach to German thoroughness in the tariff schedules of future years. The business men should pull together to induce the next congress to create one as a supplement to its revision of the tariff.—Chicago Tribune.

Calls for Smiles.

The senate must have been overcome with the emotion which the spectacle of confident and triumphant virtue always inspires when it heard the Hon. Joseph W. Bailey object to confirming a nominee for a post in the cabinet on the ground that he had performed some legal services for the Waters-Pierce Company. Mr. Bailey, with his intense consciousness of impeccability, is ever prone to condemn in the walk and conduct of other public servants—or prospective public servants—what he generously condones in his personal and poltical record.—New York Tribune.

Had the Right Support.

In an article reviewing the career of the outgoing president the New York Post says querulously: "As Roosevelt broke with friend after friend, and lost the support of one college man after another, he could point to the adoration of labor unions and miners and ranchmen; and that was enough for him." The support of that class of men is what every president in this democratic country should most desire, for it is the common man, of whom, as Abraham Lincoln said, the Lord made so many, that the government is intended chiefly to benefit.

CONGRESS AND THE TARIFF.

Action on Vital Question Undoubtedly Will Be Slow.

The president's proclamation calling the Sixty-first congress to meet in extraordinary session on March 15 was in formal compliance with general agreement. The constitution empowers the president to convene congress "on extraordinary occasions," but when so convened it possesses all its ordinary powers and is not limited to the consideration of any specified sbject. The present "extraordinary occasion" is the demand for the revision of the tariff, which was left by common consent to the congress elected in November last.

Even should this session be devoted exclusively to the one subject, the expectation that this can be disposed of in three months is probably eversanguine. To begin with, this congress is to organize anew, and in the house of representatives a long time will be spent in the discussion of amendments to the rules. The old rules will doubtless stand, with few modifications, but the opportunity for the insurgents and for new members who know nothing of the subject to make speeches about the speaker will not be neglected. After this the committees will be appointed and organized, and the committee representatives a long time will be nominally a new committee, though composed mainly of the old members—will proceed to another stage of its consideration of the schedules. In the course of time it will report a bill, and after the bill shall have been adopted by the house it will go to the senate, and will be reported to a committee of that body. After further time it will emerge from committee in a form scarcely recognizable by its original framers. Then will come debate, conferences, more debate and more conferences. Finally the tyranny of the "rules" will have to be invoked to reach a definite result.

There will be opportunity in the meanwhile for any other legislation that may appear urgent, for the great body of the members of either house will take but little part in the actual consideration of the complicated details of the tariff. Nevertheless, the need of prompt action is universally recognized. The country is not expecting an ideal tariff at this time, but it does want the matter disposed of.

"Sunny Jim."

Vice-President Fairbanks has been unjustly held up before the country as a cold, austere man. Whatever else may be said of his successor, this charge will never be laid at his door.

James S. Sherman, who to-day is the second officer in the nation, is the apostle of sunshine. He says: "The world has been bright and beautiful right along and has given me all I ever earned and more, too. I have been an optimist from my boyhood up."

His youth was spent amid cheerful and helpful surroundings. His father was a journalist, drifted into politics, and held a number of public offices. His mother, a woman of culture and character, put the impress of her strong personality upon her children.

Fortune has been good to her honored son, and he has cultivated through life that genial disposition which makes him one of the most popular men in public life to-day.

The Taft administration ought to be all sunshine with such sunny characters at its head. The Taft and Sherman smile will be contagious no doubt and usher in an era of abounding good fellowship and cheer. The genial Taft and "Sunny Jim" Sherman reflect the prevailing optimism of the American people.

Enforcing Treaty Obligations.

An important reform which President Taft hopes to see credited to his administration is the assertion, through legislation, of the federal government's power to enforce treaty obligations. That is one of the federal powers which has been allowed to remain latent, and the omission to apply it has more than once seriously embarrassed the United States. As a nation accepting treaty favors from other nations, this country has often had to confess that it does not guarantee to aliens the same rights and protection which it asks for its own citizens in alien jurisdictions. The treaties which we sign with other powers impose what are apparently mutual obligations. But when the pinch comes the bargain is found to have been one-sided. We do not give a quid pro quo. For other governments are in a position to compel their citizens or subjects to respect treaty promises, while an administration at Washington has to intrust the execution of its pledges to uncertain agencies quite beyond its control.

A Southern View.

Mr. Roosevelt will rank in history as one of the five great presidents of the United States. We would name as the preceding four Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Cleveland. He has done more in the last eight years to impress himself upon the world than any other man in it, not excepting William of Germany. And notwithstanding his infirmities of character and temper, his frequent follies and even worse, he is, we believe, the most popular man in the United States to-day.—Charlotte (N. C.) Observer (Dem).

One of the prominent engineers on the Panama canal says Poultney Bigelow passed two days there and spent the next two years writing about it. Some of the most industrious critics at present have never been to Panama at all.

Pennsylvania Happenings

Altoona.—A stormy session was held here at the convention of District No. 2, United Mine Workers, resulting in the disfranchisement of six local unions along the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad, representing 2,000 miners, who, it is alleged, refused to obey the constitution of the order.

New Castle. — Ground has been broken at Edenburg, this county, for a $250,000 plant by the American Pressed Steel Rail Company of Boston. E. A. Dodson, purchasing agent for the company, closed a deal for a 20-acre manufacturing sit and immediately employed men to begin preparing the ground for building foundations. The plant will employ 250 men.

Erie.—A man arrested here is believed to be one of the gang of city directory swindlers who have been working other parts of the country. He is said to have worked dozens of Erie business concerns, and was caught while negotiating for an advertisement with a brewing company. He gives his name as E. L. Goodhart, and was committed to jail in default of $1,000 bail for a hearing.

Washington.—Mrs. Sarah Harford, said to be the oldest woman of Washington county and a member of a family noted for longevity, died at Beallsville, aged 95 years. Mrs. Harford's father, George Craft, a pioneer settler of Fayette county, lived to be 92. A brother, Daniel Craft, of Fayette county, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Waggoner, of Brownsville, are living, the former 80 years old and the latter 87.

Harrisburg.—By a vote of 22 to 18, four less than required, the senate defeated the Murphy pure food bill. This is the measure advocated by the Wholesale grocers and some of the retail grocers of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, and permitted the use of one-tenth of one per centum of benzoate of soda as a preservative in food stuffs and allowed the use of dioxide of sulphur in the preparation of dried fruits.

Harrisburg.—Gov. Stuart has signed the pure milk and ice cream bills, prepared by Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust and they will become effective at once. Both were drawn as the result of years of experience in the enforcement of the food laws and from data compiled in prosecutions. The milk bill prohibits the sale of any milk to which water has been added or from which butter fat has been removed, provided that skimmed milk may be sold as such and that no cream shall be sold as cream containing less than 15 per cent butter fats. Penalty is fine of from $20 to $60.

West Newton.—Tony Noble, an Italian of Blythedale, committed suicide in the Suterville lockup by hanging himself with a strap. Noble, who had been drinking, was crossing a toll bridge over the Youghiogheny river, when he quarreled with Miss Katherine Kellner over paying toll. He went away, but returned soon with a revolver and opened fire on the toll office. Several bullets went entirely through the building, but Miss Kellner and her brother John, who were inside, were not injured. Noble was arrested, and while alone in the lockup ended his life.

Butler.—Whether a tuberculosis dispensary established by the state in the heart of a residence section may be removed at the instance of the borough board of health lead to a clash between local and state authorities here. Health Officer Robert B. Fowzer served notice on County Medical Inspector H. D. Hockenberry to remove the dispensary to the outskirts of the town, alleging that as it is now located it is a menace to the public health. The decision was left to State Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon, who has refused to overrule the health officer. Notice has been given that the dispensary will be removed at an early date.

Harrisburg.—The Herbst medical bill has been amended in the senate committee on public health and sanitation so as to exempt Christian Scientists from the requirements for a medical education. Chiropodists also are exempted. The "one board" feature of the bill was retained, but instead of the "agreement" of two weeks ago for a state examining board of three allopaths, three homeopaths and two eclectics, the committee adopted the original form of the bill, for the governor to appoint eight members of the board without specification as to the medical "school" to which they may belong. No exception is made for the osteopaths under the provisions of this act.

Pittsburg.—Methodism and spiritualism have locked horns at Smithton and Jacobs Creek, the two Youghiogheny river towns that were the scene of the fearful Darr mine disaster a year ago, on account of the reputed activity of a number of Pittsburg spiritualistic "mediums" who invaded the locality immediately after the mine horror. The clash of the church people and the spiritualistic converts culminated recently in the liveliest public meeting Smithton has seen in years in the town hall, when a small riot nearly broke up the gathering.

KIDNAPED BOY IS GIVEN TO FATHER

ABDUCTORS PUT LAD ON STREET CAR AND SENT HIM TO CLEVELAND HOTEL.

ATTEMPTED TO DISGUISE BOY

The Father Recognizes His Son in the Hotel Lobby, Grasps Him in His Arms and Smothers Him with Kisses.

Cleveland, O.—Little Willie Whitla, who has caused the police of the entire country endless worry since he was kidnaped from school in Sharon last Thursday, was returned to his father at the Hollenden hotel here last night at 8:30 o'clock.

In compliance with an agreement entered into between the kidnaped boy's father and an agent of the kidnapers here yesterday, the boy was placed on a car on the outskirts of the city and started to the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock. Two boys, G. W. Ramsey and Edward Mahoney, recognized the lad on the car and taking him in charge conducted him to his father, who was in waiting according to a prearranged plan which he had followed at the dictation of the kidnapers.

Boy Wandered About Lobby.

The boy wandered about the hotel lobby unannounced for several minutes asking bell boys for his father before the latter knew his son was in the big foyer. The moment the anxious parent heard that a strange boy was in the hotel sauntering in aimless fashion, he rushed across the lobby, grasped him in his arms and smothered his face with kisses.

An attempt had been made to disguise the lad. He wore a pair of smoked glasses and a large tan cap, which was pulled down over his ears, and the father said it would have been difficult to have recognized the boy in such a garb had he passed him on the street.

Was Well Treated.

Willie is in perfect health. He says that he has been well treated and ever since his capture has been constantly indoors. He believes he was taken from Sharon to Warren and thence to New Castle, Pa. It is his opinion, expressed in a happy schoolboy way, that he was in Ashtabula on Saturday night at the time his father was to leave his $10,000 in Flatiron park.

Whitla senior refused to state whether he had paid the ransom or not. He said that he received a letter yesterday from the kidnapers at his home in Sharon saying that if he called at a confectionery store in the East End of Cleveland he would be told how to secure his boy unharmed and "well fed."

Father Makes Trip Alone.

Shortly after noon he left Sharon for Cleveland. He was unaccompanied. His immediate family and the private detectives he had in his employ he apprised of the proposed secret meeting, but insisted that he make the trip alone. Every one of them was warned that he must be allowed to go unaided, and no attempt at the capture of the kidnapers would be made. Whitla was certain that if he spoiled the plans of his son's captors last night he would never see the lad again. His experience at Ashtabula served as a warning.

About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon he went to a candy store in the East End. With him he carried the $10,000, expecting that it would be demanded of him there. He was met by a woman who detailed to him the terms of the kidnapers. With all the eagerness of a distracted parent Whitla agreed to them immediately. Detectives in his employ say that he paid the money, but on this point the father declines to commit himself. Half an hour later he returned to the Hollenden hotel and awaited developments.

Prepared for Return.

In the meantime little Willie, the kidnaped boy, treated kindly by his abductors, was being prepared for his return to his father. The woman at the candy store had done her duty. She communicated with the captors of the boy and told them that the father had made no attempt to trap them. The kidnapers were satisfied. Whitla senior declines to name the woman in charge of the confectionery store.

So the boy was brought from his hiding place—where, no one knows—to a car line in the east end of the city which would bring him down town quickly. Just before the boy was put on the car, the man who had charge of him put a pair of smoked glasses on the lad. The boy was then put on the car and the mysterious man paid the lad's fare and disappeared.

A Young Detective.

The boy gazed about the car for a familiar face. He saw no one he knew. Presently Edward Mahoney, who is a 17-year-old boy of jolly visage, came into the car. He sat down in the seat with the boy. Mahoney, like most every other person in Cleveland last night, was looking for little Willie Whitla, the kidnaped boy. So when his eyes lighted on Willie he started a conversation.

"What's your name?" he queried.

"Jones," answered Willie, true to his kidnaper friend.

But Mahoney was not to be fooled. He called his friend Ramsey over from another part of the car and showed him Willie. He suggested that it might be the missing child. Then Willie showed them his transfer slip, saying that he should be put off at the Hollenden hotel, and they were convinced that they had accomplished more than had all of the sleuths in the country.

The boys, now willing companions, took Willie to the hotel. He skipped through the doors of them and into the lobby. The boys partly lost track of him in the crowd so anxious was the youngster to catch a glimpse of a face he loved. And then again Mahoney and Ramsey were not sure of their abilities as sleuths when they got in view of an audience.

Looked for His Father.

Willie didn't see his father, mother or sister in the lobby. Walking over to the clerk he said:

"Have you seen my papa?"

"Who is he, boy?" he was asked.

"Oh, I'm Mr. Whitla's Willie," he replied.

The crowd nearest the boy who heard the words rushed in around him. The lad was shoved up against the hotel counter and the scene closely resembled panic.

Across the lobby the father, his eyes red from weeping, heard the piping voice of his son. Frantic with joy at the sound, he rushed through the office corridor and in a moment was fighting his way through the spectators. Plunging and squirming, knocking bystanders right and left, the frenzied parent made his way to the bewildered boy in knickerbockers standing solemnly with automobile goggles in front of the clerks desk.

The kidnaped boy saw his parent coming. He opened his lips to speak. The words were never spoken. Grasping Willie in his arms the happy father lifted the boy into his arms and planted a score of kisses on his lips.

"Its my boy, my darling Willie!" he cried.

Tears rushed from his eyes. He pressed the child to his breast and hugged him tightly.

Willie smiled a little. He was glad to see his papa. But he didn't realize what all the fuss was about.

HOMECOMING OF WILLIE WHITLA

Whole Borough of Sharon, Pa., Turns Out in Big Demonstration.

Sharon, Pa.—The whole borough of Sharon turned out last night and participated in the demonstration over the homecoming of Willie Whitla who, with his father, arrived here soon after noon yesterday. A big parade was led by the Buhl Independent Rifles, a national guard company and the Buhl Rifles band, both named for Willie's uncle, and thousands of persons marched behind them through the principal streets of the town to the Whitla home, where fully 5,000 persons assembled on the lawn and in front of the house, cheering and giving every evidence of the public participation in the family joy over the recovery of the little wanderer.

The band took a position on the front porch of the Whitla home and played several selections, while the whole crowd cheered frantically. In a front room, visible through a window, were the Whitla family, Willie beside Detective Ward his father and mother behind the boy.

When calls were made for a speech Mr. Whitla appeared on the porch, accompanied by Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, of the First Presbyterian church, who spoke briefly expressing the joy of all the Whitla neighbors and fellow citizens over the recovery of the boy.

Mr. Whitla then addressed the throng. He extended his thanks to all the officials and individuals who had assisted in the search for the boy and expressed the gratitude of himself and family for the sympathy of the people which he said had done so much to help the family bear up during the darkest hour of their sorrow. He suggested that children be taught by their parents to fear strangers and to make an outcry whenever any stranger should attempt to induce children to accompany him.

Great Chance to Get Rich.

New York City.—A dishonest man holding the position of police commissioner in New York City easily might become a millionaire in a few months, so great are the opportunities for illicit gains, according to a statement made by Commissioner Bingham. During Mr. Bingham's first year in the office, he said, a single bribe of $600,000 a year was offered him if he would protect certain criminal interests. "Compliance with the conditions of the offer," he added, "would have been entirely of a negative matter—all they wanted was to be let alone."

Newspaper Career Ended.

New York City.—A long and interesting newspaper career was closed yesterday with the sudden death of Joseph Swan, for nearly 40 years connected with the Associated Press as marine reporter. Mr. Swan, active to the end, dropped dead in his chair at the ship news office at the Battery. A moment before he had been talking with his fellow reporters. For the month past he had not been a well man and had been warned not to over exert himself as his heart was showing signs of weakness.

To Dissolve the Standard.

St. Louis, Mo. — Nineteen typewritten volumes, containing 25,000 pages of testimony and 1,500 documentary exhibits, were filed in the United States circuit court here yesterday as the record in the government case to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The documents represent the results of hearings held by Special Examiner Franklin Ferris in New York, Chicago and other cities. The testimony will be reviewed and arguments made in St. Louis on April 5.

BOY IDENTIFIES HIS ABDUCTORS

WILLIE WHITLA RECOGNIZES MAN AND WOMAN CAPTURED BY POLICE.

WILL BE TAKEN TO SHARON

A Woman, Who the Police Say May Have Been an Associate of the Kidnapers, Commits Suicide by Taking Poison.

Cleveland, O.—Following the positive identification of James Boyle and his wife Helen as the kidnapers of Billy Whitla, yesterday, the woman finally broke down and admitted her part in the entire affair. When first arrested by Capt. Shattuck and Detective Wood Tuesday night Mrs. Boyle was defiant and refused to give up even her name. Yesterday, however, this mood entirely disappeared. Boyle still maintains stolid silence.

Cleveland, O.—Willie Whitla yesterday identified the man and woman held on suspicion by the Cleveland police as the persons who kidnaped him from the school at Sharon, Pa., last Thursday, and held him for the $10,000 ransom, which was paid by his father, Attorney J. P. Whitla, Monday. Willie said the man, who gave the name of James H. Boyle, was the one who took him from school and carried him through a tortuous route to Cleveland, then to Ashtabula, back to this city and placed him in the house in the East End where he was held until the money was paid. Willie also declared that the woman was the one who cared for him at the house where he was detained and who acted the part of a nurse.

Man's Name is Boyle.

Boyle said the woman is his wife. The police have no other identification of the couple than the names given. So far as the man is concerned the police believe the name is correct. Boyle is said to reside in Sharon and is a plumber by trade.

The woman, who is accredited with being the wife of Boyle, declared soon after her arrest that her identification would cause a sensation in Sharon.

When the identification was completed Mr. Whitla would say nothing regarding the woman. He said he knew Boyle slightly.

Attorney Whitla, accompanied by Mrs. Whitla, their son and daughter, Willie and Salina, a boy schoolmate of Willie, Harry Forker, a brother of Mrs. Whitla, Janitor Sloss, Chief of Police Crane, Detective Kempler, District Attorney Lininger, Former District Attorney Cochran and Detective Ward, all of Sharon, arrived here at 1 o'clock yesterday.

Immediately after Willie Whitla had seen the man and woman at the Central police station they were taken to the county court house and there appeared before the grand jury. They were examined for the purpose of aiding the jury in its attempt to find an indictment against the two prisoners. The charge, under the laws of Ohio, against the man and woman, if an indictment was found, will be blackmail. This is based upon the payment of the $10,000 ransom paid by Mr. Whitla. As Boyle and his wife are held by the police on suspicion only an indictment will afford a means of placing them under arrest formally and then they can be held indefinitely.

Leave for Sharon.

Immediately after leaving the grand jury room Mr. and Mrs. Whitla, Willie and the janitor of the Sharon school which Willie attended, left for Sharon.

As the prisoners have not waved extradition they will be held here for two or three days until the necessary papers for their removal to Sharon can be arranged between the governors of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Woman Commits Suicide.

A woman, known as Mary Diener, who the police say may have been an associate of the kidnapers, or was implicated in the plot, committed suicide yesterday by drinking morphine. The woman drank the poison while standing in front of a drug store in the East End, not far from the house in which Willie Whitla was detained.

Kidnapers Caught.

Cleveland, O.—A man and a woman, whom the police say they are positive are the kidnapers of Billy Whitla, are behind the bars. Nine thousand eight hundred and fifty dollars in currency, which was found on the woman, is locked up in the station safe. This currency was tied in $500 packages with pink tape bearing the imprint "Lawrence, Saratoga, N. Y."

When told of this fact, J. P. Whitla exclaimed immediately: "That is the money. The money I gave had the same pink tape around the packages, with the same imprint on the tape."

"Well, you've got us. There'll be —— to pay in Sharon tomorrow," said the woman when arrested.

Mining Promoter Killed.

Kansas City, Mo.—Leon H. Brady, a mining engineer, yesterday shot and killed Joseph Flanagan, a mining promoter. The shooting took place at the Brady home. Flanagan's home is in Cleveland, O., where his family lives. Brady, when arrested, told the police that Flanagan attacked Mrs. Brady in the hall of their home. While Mrs. Brady was struggling to free herself Brady ran to her aid, he said, and killed Flanagan, thereby saving his wife from the man.

SOCIETY LADY SUICIDES

WIFE OF TOBACCO MAGNATE IS FOUND DEAD IN BATHROOM.

DEATH SHOCKS WASHINGTON

Members of Family Declare Mrs. Lorillard Died of Heart Failure Instead of Taking Her Own Life

Washington, D. C.—Weary of the gay whirl of society and face to face as she believed with years of physical suffering, Mrs. Pierre Lorillard, jr., aged 49, wife of the tobacco magnate, committed suicide by asphyxiation at her home near the fashionable Dupont circle in this city yesterday. Her tragic death has shocked the first social circles of the Capital as nothing else in years. In spite of the coroner's certificate of death by suicide, members of the family declare that Mrs. Lorillard died of heart failure.

The death was made more dramatic by occurring only a few hours after Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard had been the guests of Mrs. Townsend, on Massachusetts avenue, at a dinner given in honor of Lady Paget. In fact it is believed that as soon as Mrs. Lorillard arrived at her home at 2030 Hillyer Place, shortly after midnight yesterday morning she began to prepare for her death. About 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning the butler in the Lorillard residence detected an odor of gas permeating the rooms. With little difficulty the origin of the fumes was traced to Mrs. Lorillard's apartments.

Opening the door of the bath room, just off of her suite, the butler was horrified upon finding the body of the mistress of the house stretched out lifeless on the floor. Her face was turned to the mat on the floor. The alarm given by the butler brought Mr. Lorillard from his apartments across the hall. Together they carried the limp body to Mrs. Lorillard's room. Panic stricken the servant was dispatched for a doctor while Mr. Lorillard attempted to revive his wife by means of artificial respiration.

Mrs. Lorillard was subject to frequent attacks of despondency, it is said. Last night Mr. Lorillard stated that in his opinion the death of his wife was not due to suicidal intent, but was the result of an accident.

CARRY GOSPEL TO THE ORIENT

The party is headed by Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman and Charles M. Alexander, and includes evangelists, gospel singers and personal workers. The itinerary includes Hawaii, Fiji, Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, China, Japan, Korea and the Philippines. The tour will take about nine months, of which six will be spent in Australia.

PRINCE STEPS DOWN AND OUT

Crown Prince George, in a Lettter to the King, Renounces His Claim to the Servian Throne.

Belgrade.—A cabinet council last night decided that the premier is incompetent to receive a direct communication from Crown Prince George, who is subject only to his father's authority. The premier will therefore return the letter which the crown prince sent to him, renouncing his right of succession to the Servian throne and will advise the prince to address himself to the king.

Recently a bitter press campaign has been waged against the crown prince. He has been accused of being implicated in the death of one of his servants, a man named Kolakovits, and it is now learned that the prince took this action because of a threatened interpellation in the national assembly on this subject. The prince now declares that before leaving the country he will await the final result of the pending political situation and will join the volunteers as a private in the event of war.

MURDER IDEA KNOCKED OUT

PROOF ESTABLISHED THAT MRS. CULBERTSON TOOK HER OWN LIFE.

YOUNG WOMAN SAD HEARTED

She Had Arranged an Hysterically Dramatic Situation to Throw the Murder on Another Woman.

Vincennes, Ind.—Mrs. Jessie Lee Overton Culbertson, young woman of mystery, sad hearted though a bride of three months, was not murdered. She slew herself after arranging an hysterically dramatic situation to throw the murder on another woman. Her husband and relatives tearfully acknowledged yesterday that their suspicions that she was killed at the instigation of another woman for jealous revenge were unfounded. The body of a miniature skeleton which had been attached to a skull found in the pocket of Mrs. Culbertson's apron when she was discovered gagged in a shed near her home last Wednesday after swallowing carbolic acid, was found late yesterday near the shed beneath a pile of debris. This toy skeleton Mrs. Culbertson had in her possession months ago.

Proof that the suicide wrote the anonymous threatening letters to herself was also established yesterday. A letter she wrote to her husband at Bridgeport, Ill., is inscribed on stationery just like that on which was penned the anonymous notes.

It was Mrs. Etta Longwell of Chicago, formerly of Vincennes, whom the Culbertsons charged with knowledge of the death of Mrs. Culbertson. Now they are anxious to have it understood that they were mistaken.

Chief of Police Evans yesterday read the last letter written to Culbertson by his wife before they were married. This letter displayed the despondent nature of the girl.

FAVORABLE CROP CONDITIONS

Tariff Discussion in Congress Bears Heavily Upon Many Trades Throughout Country.

New York City.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Favorable conditions in crop growing sections promise well for the future and the seasonable weather generally prevailing is helpful to trade, advices from the northwest being particularly cheerful. The tariff discussion in congress bears heavily upon many trades.

Whatever progress is making in iron and steel is mostly confined to structural lines. The recent slight improvement in this division is being maintained. A better inquiry is received from the railroads, the tonnage pending aggregating a good volume. Business in steel rails is limited, although several small contracts are noted.

AN ALLEGED KIDNAPING CASE

Young Lad of Flint, Mich., Has Been Missing Since February 27—Baffling Mystery.

Chicago, Ill.—An alleged kidnaping case developed yesterday. The alleged victim is Harold Moon, 10 years old, son of Lyman H. Moon of Flint, Mich. He was stolen, it is said, from his home on February 27. Mrs. W. H. Frost, a friend of the Moon family, called at detective headquarters and said that there was reason to think that the child was hidden in Chicago.

Flint, Mich.—The disappearance of ten-year-old Harold Moon on February 27 has proved a baffling mystery, despite wide publicity given to the case. A boy answering the description of the missing lad was seen in the outskirts of Detroit soon after his disappearance and was traced to Pontiac, but there the clew was lost.

NEAR THE SOUTH POLE

ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION GETS WITHIN 111 MILES OF IT.

SUFFERED NO LOSS OF LIFE

Results Attained by Explorers Throws Much Light Upon the History of the Antartic Continent.

London, England.—Lieut. E. H. Shackleton of the British navy, commandant of the Antarctic expedition which returned on the barkentine Nimrod to Invercargill, New Zealand, yesterday, although he did not achieve his object, succeeded in getting within 111 miles of the pole.

The Nimrod expedition left England in July, 1907, and after reaching the ice fields and making the most elaborate preparations, the main expedition started on a sledge journey which occupied 126 days and traversed 1,708 miles southward. The explorers reached latitude 88.23 and longitude 162 east, which was estimated as 111 miles from the pole. At the point where the expedition was compelled to turn back the land was 9,000 feet in altitude, trending southward in a vast field of snow. The expedition suffered no loss of life.

The narrative of Lieut. Shackleton's achievements shows that the expedition endured the greatest trials and privations. The motor car, which was useful in the preliminary expeditions, failed on the uneven surface of the barriers of ice. Briefly summarized the results of the expedition are that a point was reached within 111 miles of the south pole; the magnetic pole was also reached; eight mountain chains were discovered, and 100 mountains. Mount Brebus, 13,120 feet in altitude, was ascended by the party; a new coast and high mountain were located running west from Victoria land, and coal measures were discovered in the Antarctic continent. The theory of the existence of an area of atmospheric calm around the south pole was disproved.

TORNADO VISITS TEXAS TOWN

One Person Was Killed, Four Were Injured and a Great Deal of Property Damaged.

Laredo, Tex.—According to a dispatch received over Mexican Federal Telegraph one person was killed, four others were injured and property damage estimated at $75,000 was caused by a tornado which swept through Laredo and vicinity last night destroying all wire communication to the north of Laredo.

The casualties occurred when the round house of the Mexican National railroad was demolished. The orphanage of the Sisters of Guadaloupe, situated on Loma Vista heights, was also destroyed, but the occupants escaped from the falling walls and were rescued from the debris unhurt. The residences of Messrs. May, McCulloch, Barnett, Andrews, Moore and Scoville were blown down and many other houses were damaged. The storm was felt as far south as La Jarita on the National railroad.

LOCOMOTIVE BOILER LETS GO

Engineer and Fireman on a Lehigh Valley Freight Near Corfu, N. Y., Killed.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Engineer Henry Kabel and Fireman John Gest, of an east-bound Lehigh Valley freight, were almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon near Corfu. The boiler of the engine exploded. Henry C. Meyers, a brakeman, was blown from the top of the string of cars by the force of the explosion. He landed in a ditch and is internally injured. The members of the crew all lived in Buffalo.

The engine, which is one of the larger type, was puffing along a level stretch of track at a fair rate of speed when suddenly there was a terrific explosion. The engine trucks fell onto the tracks 50 feet away from the rest of the train and the boiler, splitting in half, crashed in a heap of bent and twisted boiler plate and pipe in a ditch about 20 feet away from the trucks.

MURDERED IN COLD BLOOD

A Young White Farmer in a North Carolina Town Killed on Eve of His Wedding.

Wilmington, N. C.—On the eve of his wedding, Jerry Bigford, a young white farmer and storekeeper, was murdered in cold blood near Freeman's Columbus county. His body was found lying on the floor of his home near his store where he lived alone, a shattered window pane giving evidence that the assassin had fired from without.

Cleveland and Stillmore Russ, brothers, one of whom is said to have been the victim's rival for the hand of his bride-to-be, a Miss Squires, have been arrested and are being held pending the coroner's inquest.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY

In Five Minutes.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headaches, nervousness, dizziness and many other similiar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause--fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

Best Treatment for Colds.

"Most ordinary colds will yield to the simplest treatment," says the Chicago Tribune, "moderative laxatives, hot foot baths, a free perspiration and an avoidance of exposure to cold and wet after treatment." While this treatment is simple, it requires considerable trouble, and the one adopting it must remain in doors for a day or two, or a fresh cold is almost sure to be contracted, and in many instances pneumonia follows. Is it not better to pin your faith to an old reliable preparation like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, that is famous for its cures of colds and can always be depended upon? For sale by L. Taggart.

The Best on Earth.

Protection against Accidents and Sickness is an absolute necessity. It costs but $5.00 a year for $15.00 weekly benefits, and $2,000 death claim. The only policy paying such liberal benefits. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. A local druggist is the authority that these simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at nominal cost from your home druggist.

The mixture is said to cleanse and strengthen the clogged and inactive Kidneys, overcoming Backache, Bladder weakness and Urinary trouble of all kinds, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Those who have tried this say it positively overcomes pain in the back, clears the urine of sediment and regulates urination, especially at night, curing even the worst forms of bladder weakness.

Every man or woman here who feels that the kidneys are not strong or acting in a healthy manner should mix this prescription at home and give it a trial, as it is said to do wonders for many persons.

This is the most dangerous time of the year to catch cold, and this is the hardest time to cure it. If you should take a cold, a few doses of Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup will act very promptly. Its laxative principle cures the cold by driving it from the system by a gentle but natural action of the bowels. Children especially like Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup, as it tastes so good, nearly like maple sugar. It is sold by all druggists.

Rheumatism.

More than nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles, due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism. In such cases no internal treatment is required. The free application of Chamberlain's Liniment is all that is needed, and it is certain to give quick relief. Give it a trial and see for yourself how quickly it relieves the pain and soreness. The medicines usually given internally for rheumatism are poisonous or very strong medicines. They are worse than useless in cases of chronic and muscular rheumatism. For sale by L. Taggart.

The best known pills and the best pills made are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They are small, easy to take, gentle and certain, and are sold by all druggists.

Microbes in the Scalp.

The Latest Explanation is That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand of Paris, France, share the honor of having discovered the hair microbe.

Baldness is not caused through a few weeks' work of these hair microbes, but is the result of conditions brought about by their presence. Baldness may not occur until years after the microbes began work, but is certain to come sooner or later.

The microbes out off the blood supply. They feed on the fatty matter about the root of the hair, through which the blood is absorbed. Finally the fatty matter is wholly consumed, the food supply of the hair is gone and it starves and finally dies.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers: Beta Napthol is both germicidal ond antiseptic, Pilocarpin, though not a dye, restores natural color to hair when loss of color was caused by disease. These curatives properly mixed with alcohol as a stimulant, perfect a remedy unequalled for curing scalp and hair troubles.

We want everyone who has any scalp or hair trouble to try Rexall "93" HairTonic which contains all these ingredients. If it does not grow hair on your bald head, stop your hair from falling out, cure you of dandruff, make your hair thick, silky, luxuriant; if it does not give you complete satisfaction in every particular, return the empty bottle to us, and we shall return every penny you paid us for it, without question or formality.

Of course, you understand that when we say that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will grow hair on bald heads, we do not refer to cases where the roots are entirely dead, the pores of the scalp closed, and the head has the shiny appearance of a billiard ball. In cases like this there is no hope. In all other cases of baldness Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will positively grow hair, or cost the user nothing. Two sizes 50c and $1.00. For sale by Mrs. M. A. The Lumber Auditors' Report.

EDITOR PRESS:—In looking over the Auditors' Repert of Lumber township for 1907 I find I am charged with road tax to the amount of $135.89, which state uncollected $19.85, for which they gave me no credit. They insinuate as much as to say I put that tax money down my pocket. I have been tax collector for three years and have paid all charges against me, which the treasurers of county, school and county can verify.

SERIAL STORY

THE LOVES of the LADY ARABELLA

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL

(Copyright, 1906, Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

CHAPTER I.

'Tis not in my nature to be cowed by any woman whatever. Therefore, when I found myself in the presence of my Lady Hawkshaw, in her Chinese drawing room, with her great black eyes glaring at me, and her huge black plume of feathers nodding at me, as she sat, enveloped in a vast black robe like a pall, I said to myself: "After all, she is but a woman." So I stared back at her with all the coolness in the world—and I was a seeker after favor, too—and but 14 years of age, and had only seven and sixpence in my pocket. The tall footman who stood behind Lady Hawkshaw's chair made a grimace at me; and I responded by a fierce look, as if I was about to run him through the body.

"Jeames," said her ladyship, "go and make my compliments to Sir Peter Hawkshaw, and say to him that his roistering kept me awake half the night, and consequently I feel very ill this morning; and that his great-nephew, Master Richard Glyn from America, is come after a midshipman's warrant in his majesty's navy—and I desire Sir Peter to attend me in my bowdwor immediately."

Her ladyship's French was the queerest imaginable—yet in her youth she had the French tutor who had taught the daughters of the regent of France.

There was a silence after the tall footman left, during which my lady and I eyed each other closely. I remember having heard that she had defied her father, Lord Bosanquet, and one of the greatest family connections in the kingdom, in order to marry Sir Peter, who was then a penniless lieutenant in his majesty's navy and the son of a drysalter in the city. This same drysalter was my great-grandfather; but I had an infusion of another blood through my mother, God bless her!—who was of a high family and a baronet's daughter. The drysalter strain was honest, but plebeian, while the baronet strain was rather more lofty than honest, I fancy.

Having heard, as I say, of the desperate struggle it cost Lady Hawkshaw to marry her lieutenant, I somewhat expected to find her and Admiral Sir Peter Hawkshaw living like doves in a cage, and was disconcerted at the message her ladyship sent her lord. But I was still more disconcerted when Sir Peter, a short, stout man, with a choleric eye, presently bounced into the room.

"Sir Peter," said her ladyship, "here is your nephew Tom's brat, who wants a midshipman's warrant."

Sir Peter stopped short, looked me over—I was tall for my age—and grinned savagely. I thought it was all up with me and was almost ready to haul down my flag.

"And Sir Peter," screamed her ladyship, "he must have it!"

"Hang me, my lady!" snapped Sir Peter, "but when did you take such an interest in my nephew Tom's brat?"

"This very hour," replied Lady Hawkshaw, tartly, and tossing her black plumes haughtily. "You behaved like a wretch to the boy after the death of his father and mother in America; and God has given you the chance to make amends, and I say he shall have his warrant."

"Zounds, madam!" bawled Sir Peter; "since you take the liberty of disposing of my warrants, I presume you are the holder of my commission as vice-admiral of the White in his majesty's service. Let me know it if you are—let me know it, I say!"

"Stuff!" responded my lady, to which Sir Peter answered something that sounded like "Damme!" and then my attention was distracted from this matrimonial engagement by the silent entrance of two young girls. One of them was about 12 years of age. She had dove-like eyes, and her dark lashes kissed her cheek. She came and stood familiarly by Lady Hawkshaw's chair; and the gentle affectionateness of her manner toward that redoubtable person amazed me at the time. This was my first sight of Daphne Carmichael; and when she fixed her soft, childish glance upon me, it was like the sight of stars on a cloudy night. But the other one, a tall girl of 16 or thereabouts, dazzled me so that I am obliged to confess I had no more eyes for Daphne. This older girl was the Lady Arabella Stormont, and was then and always by far the handsomest creature I ever beheld. I shall not attempt to describe her. I will only say that her brilliant face, with such a complexion as I never saw before or since, showed a haughty indifference toward the shabby boy over whom Sir Peter and Lady Hawkshaw were squabbling, and the sense of my shabbiness and helplessness pierced my heart under Lady Arabella's calmly scornful gaze.

Both of these young girls were the great-nieces of Sir Peter Hawkshaw, but not on the drysalter's side, so they were no blood relation to me. Sir Peter was their guardian, and Lady Hakshaw had charge of them, and was most kind and devoted to them in her way. I soon found out that every one of Sir Peter's family had a good friend in Lady Hawkshaw; and I may as well say here that for true devotion and incessant wrangling, I never saw a married pair that equaled Sir Peter and Lady Hawkshaw.

The discussion between them concerning me grew hotter, and I grew as hot as the discussion, in thinking what a figure I was making before that divinely beautiful Lady Arabella. I had clean forgotten Daphne. Lady Hawkshaw lugged in a great variety of extraneous matter, reminding Sir Peter of certain awful predictions concerning his future which had been made by the last chaplain who sailed with him. Sir Peter denounced the chaplain as a sniveling dog. Lady Hawkshaw indulged in some French, at which Lady Arabella laughed behind her hand.

The battle royal lasted some time longer, but Lady Hawkshaw's metal was plainly heavier than Sir Peter's; and it ended by Sir Peter's saying to me angrily:

"Very well, sir, to oblige my lady I will give you the remaining midshipman's berth on the Ajax, 74. You may go home now, but show yourself aboard the Ajax at Portsmouth, before 12 o'clock on this day week, and be very careful to mind your eye."

I had nerved myself to hear with coolness the refusal of this fiery admiral; but his real kindness, disguised under so much choler, overcame me. I stammered something and stopped—that hound of a footman was grinning at me, because my eyes were full of tears, and also, perhaps, because my coat was of cheap make, and my shoes needed attention. But at that moment little Daphne, with the greatest artlessness, came up and slipped her little hand into mine, saying:

"He means he is very much obliged to you, uncle, and to you, dear aunt."

"Here is Your Nephew Tom's Brat."

I do not know how I got out of the house, but the next thing I knew I was standing on the street outside. I had been told to go home. I had no home now unless the Bull-in-the-Bush tavern be one. But I did not return to the Bull-in-the-Bush, whose tawdry splendors revolted me now, after I had seen Sir Peter Hawkshaw's imposing house, as much as they had before attracted me. I was tingling with the sense of beauty newly developed in me. I could not forget that exquisite vision of Lady Arabella Stormont, who seemed to my boyish mind more like a white rose bush in full flower than anything I could call to memory. I made my way instead to the plain, though clean, lodgings, where I had spent the years since my parents' death, with good Betty Green, the widow of Corporal Green, late of my father's regiment.

These two excellent but humble creatures had brought me, an orphan, home from my birthplace, America, consigned to Sir Peter and Lady Hawkshaw. This woman, Betty Green, had been my mother's devoted servant, as her husband had been my father's, and it was thought perfectly safe to send me home with them. But there was a danger which no one foresaw. Betty was one of those strange women who love like a lioness. This lioness' love she felt for me; and for that reason, I believe, she deliberately planned to prevent my family from ever getting hold of me. It is true, on landing in England, her husband's regiment being ordered to Winchester, she went to see Sir Peter Hawkshaw and, I suspect, purposely made him so angry that, Lady Hawkshaw being absent, he almost kicked Betty Green out of the house. That is what I fancy my lady meant when she reproached Sir Peter with cruelty to me. I well remember the air of triumph with which Betty returned and told the corporal of her ill success; then, clasping me in her arms, she burst out with a cry that no admiral nor ladies nor lords neither should take her darling boy away from her. Green, her husband, being a steady, cool-headed fellow, waited until the paroxysm was over, when he told her plainly that she must carry out my parents' instructions, and he himself would go to see Sir Peter as soon as he could. But Fate disposed of this plan by cutting short the corporal's life the next week, most unexpectedly. Then this woman, Betty Green—illiterate, a stranger in England, and supporting us both by her daily labor—managed to foil all of the efforts of Admiral Sir Peter Hawkshaw to find me; for he had done all he could to discover the whereabouts of his nephew's orphan. 'Tis not for me to say one word against Betty Green, for she slaved for me as only a woman can slave, and, besides, brought me up in the habits and manners of a gentleman, albeit she did little for my education, and to this day I am prone to be embarrassed when I have a pen in my hand. I can not say that I was happy in the devoted, though savage, love she lavished upon me. She would not allow me to play with the boys of her own class, and those of my class I never saw. All my clamorings to know something about my family on either side were met by her declaring that she had forgotten where my mother's people lived; and as for Sir Pete, she gave me such a horrifying account of him that I never dreamed it possible to receive any kindness from him. At last, though, on her death-bed, she acknowledged a part of the deception her desperate affection had impelled her to play upon me. The poor soul had actually forgotten about my mother's family, and had destroyed everything relating to them, but directed me to go to Sir Peter; and thus it was that, on the day after I saw Betty Green, my only friend on earth, laid in a pauper's grave, I went to the house of my father's uncle, with the result narrated. When I got back to the humble lodgings where I had lived before Betty's death, I looked up a small box of trinkets of little value which had belonged to my mother, and from the sale of them I got enough to live upon for a week, and to make my way to Portsmouth at the end of it. Either Sir Peter had forgotten to tell me anything about my outfit, or else I had slipped out so quickly—galled by the fear of weeping before that rascally footman—that he had no chance. At all events, I arrived at Portsmouth by the mail coach, with all of my belongings in one shabby portmanteau.

I shall not describe my feelings during that journey toward the new life that awaited me. In fact, I scarcely recall them coherently; all was a maze, a jumble, and an uproar in my mind.

We got down in the inn yard—a coach full of passengers—I the only one who seemed adrift and alone among them. I stood looking about me—at a pert chambermaid who impudently ogled the hostlers and got a kiss in return; at the pretentious entrance to the inn; at all of the bustle and confusion of the arrival of the coach. Presently I saw a young gentleman somewhat older than myself, and wearing the uniform of his majesty's sea-service, come out of the inn door. He had a very elegant figure, but his face was rather plain. Within five minutes of my first meeting with Giles Vernon, I had an example of what was one of his most striking traits—every woman in sight immediately fixed her attention on him and smiled at him. One was the chambermaid, who left off ogling the hostlers and gaped at this young officer with her coarse, handsome face all aflame; another was the landlady, who followed him to the door, smirking and fanning herself; and the third was a venerable Quakeress, who was about entering the inn, and who beamed benevolently on him as he bowed gallantly in passing. I know not why this should have made such an impression on me; but being young and a fool I thought beauty was as highly prized by women as by men, and it surprised me that a fellow with a mouth so wide and with something dangerously near a squint should be such a lady-killer. It was common enough for young gentlemen holding midshipmen's warrants to come down by the coach, and as soon as he saw me this young officer called out:

"Hallo, my hearty! Is it a ship of the line or a frigate you are booked for? Or is it one of those damned gunbrigs which are unfit for a gentleman to serve in?"

BY WHEELBARROW IN CHINA.

Two Passengers Go 20 Miles a Day for Ten Cents Each.

Probably more freight and more passengers are transported in China by the wheelbarrow than by any other land method. The wheelbarrow used in China differs from that used in America in the fact that the wheel is set in the center and thus supports practically the entire load, while the handles are supported in part by a strap or rope over the shoulders of the man who operates it.

As a result the coolie in China will transport nearly half a ton on his wheel. Wheelbarrows are much used in the country where the roads are but little developed, and I have heard that passengers sometimes make the entire trip from Shanghai to Peking, a distance of 600 miles, by barrow.

A two-passenger barrow will make about 20 miles a day, and the coolie is content with a pay of about 20 cents a day, or an average of about half a cent a mile for each passenger.

On the level, well-kept streets of the foreign quarters of such cities as Hongkong, Shanghai and Peking the wheelbarrow coolie will struggle along with a load of six or even eight people.—Washington Herald.

Scandinavian Dinner Custom.

A strange custom obtains in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. At dinner parties, if the guests are not evenly matched as regards numbers, it is a custom for one man to offer his arm to another if the ladies are not sufficiently numerous, and in this strange manner the guests go to dinner.

The fashion we are told always appears grotesque to the foreigner, and is without charm and without grace.

PREVENTING PAINT TROUBLES

It's easy enough to recognize the symptoms of poor paint, after it has been on awhile—after its inherent tendency to crack and peel and scale and blister, etc., has developed into trouble. You know these paint "diseases" usually indicate adulteration or substitution in the paint materials. And you know the only remedy is re-painting.

A little knowledge of paint and painting requirements, and how to made sure of the purity and quality of materials, would prevent all trouble, and save the big extra expense of re-painting; just as a proper knowledge of simple health-laws, and observance of them, prevents sickness.

A complete painting guide, including a book of color schemes, specifications for all kinds of painting work, and an instrument for detecting adulteration in paint materials, with directions for using it, can be had free by writing National Lead Co., 1902 Trinity Bldg., New York, and asking for Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49.

A very simple guide in the purchase of white lead (the only sure and safe paint material) is the famous "Dutch Boy Painter" trademark; that trademark is an absolute guarantee of purity and quality.

Bank Balance and Independence.

Business women have evolved the idea of saving, and the thrifty incentive was not inspired by their brothers, but rather envelops the girl with pendence which evolves the girl with $300 or $400 to her credit and spurs her on to add more and more to the reserve.

COVERED WITH HIVES.

Child a Mass of Dreadful Sore, Itching, Irritating Humor for 2 Months—Little Sufferer in Terrible Plight.

Disease Cured by Cuticura.

"My six year old daughter had the dreadful disease called hives for two months. She became affected by playing with children who had it. By scratching she caused large sores which were irritating. Her body was a complete sore but it was worse on her arms and back. We employed a physician who left medicine but it did not help her and I tried several remedies but without avail. Seeing the Cuticura Remedies advertised, I thought I would try them. I gave her a hot bath daily with Cuticura Soap and anointed her body with Cuticura Ointment. The first treatment relieved the itching and in a short time the disease disappeared. Mrs. George L. Fridhoff, Warren, Mich., June 30 and July 13, 1908."

Slightly Mixed.

Little Oliver, six years old, had learned the song in which is oft repeated the refrain: "Glory, glory, hallelujah," and for some time he had been singing it with great enthusiasm and vigor. Finally he became silent, and after a brief period of cogitation he said:

"Mamma, what does 'hallelujah' mean?"

As simply as she could his mother explained that it was a religious exclamation meaning "praise the Lord."

He seemed rather surprised at the information, but his next question offered ample explanation of why he had thrown so much vigor into his singing. "If that's what it means," he said, "why do they throw corn and have jack lanterns on hallelujah night?"

LESS MEAT
Advice of Family Physician.

Formerly people thought meat necessary for strength and muscular vigor.

The man who worked hard was supposed to require meat two or three times a day. Science has found out differently.

It is now a common thing for a family physician to order less meat, as in the following letter from a N. Y. man.

"I had suffered for years with dyspepsia and nervousness. My physician advised me to eat less meat and greasy foods generally. I tried several things to take the place of my usual breakfast of chops, fried potatoes, etc., but got no relief until I tried Grape-Nuts food.

"After using Grape-Nuts for the cereal part of my meals for two years, I am now a well man. Grape-Nuts benefited my health far more than the $500.00 worth of medicine I had taken before.

"My wife and children are healthier than they had been for years, and we are a very happy family, largely due to Grape-Nuts.

"We have been so much benefited by Grape-Nuts that it would be ungrateful not to acknowledge it."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

And It Was Overruled.

Judge Hoar and Gen. Butler were opponents in a case of a new trial. Gen. Butler quoted: "Eye for eye, skin for skin, tooth for tooth, yea, all that a man hath, will be give for his life." To which Judge Hoar replied: "Yes, the devil quoted that once before in a motion for a new trial."

POULTRY AND BEES

POULTRY ON THE FARM.

Some Attention Paid to This End of the Stock Raising Industry.

The day has gone when the care of poultry on the farm consists of letting them range at large during the summer and throwing the hens a bit of corn for their feed during the winter, allowing them access to the snowdrift for their water supply.

To be sure, poultry can eke out an existence with this treatment now as well as formerly, but if it did not pay when eggs were from 3 to 7 cents per dozen, it surely can not pay now when the rate is from 15 to 50 cents.

The farmer has an advantage over the city dweller, as he is able to produce a large partof the mixed ration necessary for the profitable feeding of poultry. Still on most farms it will not be unwise or unprofitable to buy some of the materials needed to give the poultry a mixed ration during the winter if it is not profitable in the summer.

There are but few farms upon which with a little care most of the material for a mixed ration can be raised. There are some farms so situated, or the soil of which is of such a composition, that it may be necessary to buy the grit supply. Upon many more a supply of protein may be bought cheaper in the form of beef scraps than produced upon the farm. Likewise, where poultry is kept in large numbers, the necessary supply of charcoal may have to be purchased, unless the consumption of wood happens to be large on this farm.

If the farmer has not given the subject thought, he may not realize that the fodder produced on the ordinary farm does not give enough of a supply of green food for the poultry during the winter. With some a supply of green food may be secured either by raising clover or cowpeas, both of which will, besides giving a supply of "green stuff," give an abundant supply of nitrogen. If the farmer cares to raise neither of these, he may supply the vegetable food needed in the shape of cabbage, turnips or beets, preferably the latter, as the users of high-priced eggs sometimes stipulate that the hens shall be fed on cabbage or other substances that may give an off flavor to the eggs.

After provision has been made for a variety of food, says the Farmers' Voice, care must be taken that the poultry, especially the laying hens, have an abundant supply of water, if they are not given skim-milk, or the egg supply will be shortened. We know from actual experience that 25 hens will use a gallon of water a day, during cold weather, if they are permitted to get at it readily and as frequently as they like.

We do not warrant any one an abundant supply of eggs, even with a mixed ration and plenty of water, if their fowls are old hens or immature pullets, but with pullets mature by the 1st of November, or hens not more than 18 months old at the beginning of the winter laying season eggs should be obtained in paying quantities.

After the eggs are gathered it is not necessary to trade them to the grocer for whatever he is disposed to give for them. Fresh eggs during the winter are in demand at god prices in a very large city; indeed, many towns will use a small number at a premium over the price of "store eggs"—or storage eggs. The producer of winter eggs can easily find a market for his product at paying prices.

SELF FEEDER FOR BEES.

Inverted Fruit Can with a Cloth Tied Over the Mouth of Can.

A very simple device for feeding bees on syrup is shown herewith.

Take an ordinary fruit can, fill it full of syrup and over the top tie a thick rag with a string. Then invert the can in a small pan or dish, explains Farm and Home. The syrup will seep out through the rag around the edges of the jar just fast enough for the bees to keep it cleaned up.

Laying Age of Hens.

According to Thomas I. Mairs of Pennsylvania, hens over two years of age are seldom good layers. Leghorns, Minorcas, etc., are sometimes good during the third and fourth years, but generally speaking the Plymouth Rocks and such fowls are of little or no use as layers after their second year; being much inclined to become excessively fat. For summer egg production the lighter breeds and later hatched pullets of the heavier breeds are best. A hen that has laid well all winter should not be expected to lay exceptionally well during the summer.

All Grain Diet.

A diet of all grains is the most expensive which can be fed. Green food will not only reduce the cost of feed, but will also keep the chickens in health. At least a third of the winter ration should consist of green food of some kind. Litter in the hen house is of little use if there is nothing in it to reward the hens for the trouble. A hen won't scratch for the fun of it. A light grain feed at noon and an early afternoon feed of cracked corn will keep them busy and happy most of the day.

DESTROYING MITES.

Do Not Let These Robbers of the Poultry Get the Start of You.

Mites in the poultry house are a great menace to profitable poultry raising. They do not go well with successful results in this branch of farming. Getting rid of them, however, is more easily said than done. The Michigan experiment station says the best way is as follows:

Clean coops perfectly, then apply thoroughly whitewash, or some other of the prepared insecticides. Be sure to fill the cracks and crevices, as these are the hiding places where mites will be found hiding during the day. Burn all the litter and add new. A spray pump may be used for applying the insecticide, as it drives the liquid into the cracks and crevices better than can be done with a brush. Whitewash can be applied with a brush, doing rapid and effective work. Mites differ from the body lice in that they suck the blood from the fowl's body, while lice have biting mouth parts and live on the skin and feathers, causing intense itching and annoyance. Mites live on the fowl's body at night only, hiding in the cracks and crevices during the day. They appear red when gorged with blood in their bodies.

ROOST FOR POULTRY HOUSE.

Simple in Construction and Easy to Keep Clean.

To make the roost shown in the accompanying illustration, says the Prairie Farmer, use four pieces of 2x3, 5 feet long for the frame. Cut each end at an angle of 45 degrees and hinge over the top with 8 inch strap hinges. On these frames nail seven 2x2 strips 7 feet long for the roosts. Beginning at the top, nail them 15 inches apart as indicated at B.

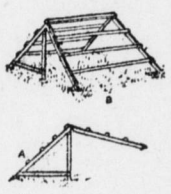

Fig. A shows the end section with the support, which is a piece of 2x3, 3 feet 4 inches long, and the stay brace, which is a piece 1x2, 3 feet 4 inches long. It also indicates how one side can be raised when the floor is cleaned.

FLOCK MATING.

It Perhaps Is a Good Method Under Certain Conditions.

Many breeders of pure bred poultry have eggs for sale from specially mated pens, and from yards where they practice flock mating, or where a number of hens are running with several males. Flock mating is all right, where the males are of good quality, if an egg machine or a carcass only is required, but flock mating will not as a rule produce fancy specimens for the show room. Flock mating on free range will give more fertile eggs than can come from hens confined to a small yard. In mating in this way, however, it is best to choose males as nearly uniform as possible; full brothers are best. Breeders frequently alternate males in a pen to secure best fertility, and we have heard it claimed that where the males are as nearly alike in shape, size, and coloring as possible, and carry the same blood lines, that a better show bird is produced than is the product of the single mating with one male. We question this latter statement, yet we would rather run males alternately with the females than at the same time. The interfering attention of various males is sometimes a distinct drawback to fertility.

POULTRY NOTES.

It is claimed that frozen eggs can be restored to their natural flavor by immersing them in hot water for 30 minutes. When thawed out by cold water the natural flavor is destroyed and the eggs are scarcely fit to eat.

It must be understood that cracked or ground bone does not take the place of grit. It helps to grind the food, but it is too soluble to do the work fully, alone. Keep crushed shell and coarse sand, or gravel, where all of the chickens can make daily use of them.

It is claimed, and demonstrated by test, that skimmed milk or buttermilk is equal to meat as food for laying hens. Milk contains enough protein and mineral matter to make it an ideal food for both young and old stock. Sour milk may be given as an occasional relish, yet sweet milk is better for regular feeds.

Feed chopped raw meat occasionally. This will take the place of the bugs, worms and grasshoppers the fowls pick up in summer time while foraging. Ground bone should also be fed. Be sure the meats are in no way tainted.

Cultivating Currants.

I begin cultivation as soon as the weather permits. In the fall we plow up to the bushes and hoe once, throwing the furrow up. In the spring we hoe once again, writes a correspondent of Orange Judd Farmer. I use a high-grade fertilizer analyzing, nitrogen 2%, phosphoric acid 8%, potash 10%. I use from 500 to 700 pounds an acre, applying it by hand in the spring, after which it is hoed in. I manure the crop once every five to seven years. The mixed fertilizer costs me from $28 to $30 a ton.

BACKACHE IS KIDNEYACHE.

Usually There Are Other Troubles to Prove It.

Pain in the back is pain in the kidneys, in most cases, and it points to the need of a special remedy to relieve and cure the congestion or inflammation of the kidneys that is interfering with their work and causing that pain that makes you say: "Oh, my back."

Thompson Watkins, professional nurse, 420 N. 23d St., Parsons, Kans., says: "For some time I was annoyed with sharp twinges across the small of my back and irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills I am free from these troubles."
